Tourism is now becoming one of the main sectors of the world trade economy and has been mentioned as a key pillar of sustainable development. Our country is also known as one of the best countries in the world in the field of tourism due to its unique attractions.

Badakhshan province, in terms of natural resources and tourist attractions, is one of the provinces with a high first place in the country and has long attracted the attention of tourists from European, American and other countries. Fortunately, the Badakhshan local government, especially the tourism directorate of the Department of Information and Culture, has a good program in place to identify and develop tourism. Tourism is now becoming one of the main sectors of the world trade economy, and it has been mentioned as the main pillar of sustainable development.

Badakhshan is also known in the field of tourism due to its many unique attractions. In general, this province is one of the country's first provinces in terms of natural resources and tourist attractions. It has long attracted the attention of all European, American and other European tourists. Badakhshan local government will publish a good letter to identify and develop tourism, a yearbook on this occasion that introduces the province's cultural resources, natural attractions, beautiful landscapes and historical monuments.

The tourism industry, as the largest industry in the world, is the most important source of income and job opportunities for countries around the world, which today is among the most lucrative, clean and low-cost industries due to its economic and social importance. Today, it is being considered, and governments pay special attention to it. Today, it is one of the main and solid foundations of the world economy, including one of the most important and fast-growing industries in world economic development.

Socially, the tourism industry is also of great importance for a region; the tourism industry is a service industry and can offer a variety of jobs in the labor markets. Employment in hotels, restaurants, tea houses, shops, handicrafts, guides, travel agencies and services in transport companies and, in general, the employment of all those who deal with foreign tourists in some form. They all need manpower, which increases with the increase in tourists, leading to business and employment in this borderland. When people in our society see that the world respects their cultural values and travels to visit this land smoothly and from long distances, they feel proud of the past. Strengthens and even renews itself. This is especially true for our society, which is experiencing rapid change; on the other hand, the tourism industry leads to cultural exchange between nations; This means that the annual movement of hundreds of thousands of tourists of different nationalities with different ideas and cultures to enter the region is effective in the worldview of millions of people in this community. The people of this ancient region of Badakhshan, in contact with foreigners, become acquainted with their culture, customs and thoughts and can mutually represent the culture and customs of this borderland.

Politically, tourism contributes to the advancement and stability of world peace by creating mutual understanding between nations. The travel of the citizens of foreign countries to this land makes them more familiar with the culture and civilization, the relative stability and peace of our people and government, despite the propaganda of the mass media. Unfortunately, as a result of the negative propaganda of Western and neighboring countries, a harsh and insecure image of Afghan culture has been created in the minds of the world and has caused the volume of travel to this land to decrease dramatically. Hence, positive propaganda can be effective in breaking these illusions. Therefore, today, world tourism is tied to the concept of dialogue between civilizations and nations and the exchange of culture between them; Therefore, establishing political, economic, cultural and technical relations with the countries of the world and the region and participating in organizations such as the Natir Eco region can contribute to tourism and the subsequent political, economic and social stability of this land. To plan properly for the tourism industry, invest in the future. We can attract tourism by making proper use of existing facilities and potential.
